COMPREHENSION

Directions (Questions 1-5): Read the following passage carefully to answer the questions that follow.

Passage I

We all know what posters are. In these modern days of advertising, there is scarcely a road along which we travel without passing one or other examples of the poster adviser's activity. These posters vary in type from illuminated, electric signs with their flashing, alternating lights, to the small hand-painted effusions which advertise local concerts in the village halls. Before we attempt a detailed study of the methods by which poster hoardings are filled with eye-catching designs, let us examine one or two basic principles which would apply to any well-planned poster campaign. In the place we must appreciate that our poster will be read, in most cases, by a mobile public. It differs from the press advertisements in that it is not carried into the home or office and read at leisure. It remains in one place, and its message, therefore, must be capable of being assimilated by the reader who is passing, often in a hurry, with other and more important business in his mind. Again, unlike the press advertisement, the poster cannot carry a long and detailed message: the man in the street has not sufficient time to read it in these days of haste and bustle.

- Q1. The tone of the passage is essentially
- | | |
|---------------|-----------------|
| (1) critical. | (2) analytical. |
| (3) formal. | (4) objective. |
- Q2. A poster need not be
- | | |
|---------------|------------------|
| (1) concise. | (2) attractive. |
| (3) colorful. | (4) illustrated. |
- Q3. The most striking feature of the poster is that it
- (1) does not give the details of the message.
 - (2) conveys the message to a large section of people.
 - (3) entertains and also informs people.
 - (4) beautifies the place where it is put up.
- Q4. Which of the following is most likely to make a poster deliver its purpose well?
- | | |
|-------------------|--------------------------|
| (1) Large size | (2) Use of fancy letters |
| (3) Catchy slogan | (4) Colorful picture |
- Q5. The press advertisement is better than a poster in which of the following contexts?
- (1) It reaches far and wide.
 - (2) It is a cheaper mode of communicating the message.
 - (3) It does not require illustrations or eye-catching pictures.
 - (4) The reader can assimilate the details as per his ease and convenience.
